

Temporary Lecturer

Division of Social Sciences - Anthropology

The Anthropology Department (<http://anthro.ucsd.edu>) at the University of California, San Diego is committed to building an excellent and diverse faculty, staff, and student body, and invites applicants whose experience have prepared them to contribute to our pedagogical mission. Successful candidates will have a Ph.D. in Anthropology, outstanding teaching and scholarship, and must demonstrate strong or potential contributions to diversity, equity, and inclusion in the context of a large public university. The Department is looking for Lecturers with teaching experience in the following anthropological subfields: Biological Anthropology and Sociocultural Anthropology (especially religion, multiculturalism, racism, education, and/or environment). We encourage applicants with expertise in regions or areas not well represented in our current faculty, for example, Africa, the Middle East, the Caribbean, and elsewhere. Appointees will be expected to teach large, introductory courses in their sub disciplines, and a combination of upper and lower division courses, including courses on their own research interests. Appointments will be part-time or full-time, up to a total of two courses per quarter, from one quarter up to one year in duration, with the possibility of extension to a subsequent year.

Applications are accepted at: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF00802>. Please include electronic versions of: an application letter, a curriculum vitae, samples of written work, teaching evaluations, 1 or 2 sample syllabi, and names and contact information for three referees (do not send letter of recommendation and/or placement files). Applicants are required to submit a separate statement summarizing their past and/or potential contributions to diversity. (See <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp> for further assistance regarding diversity requirements).

Review of applications will begin after June 30, 2015.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on published UC pay scales.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.